esper

Simplified management, maximized control

Esper's integrated MDM and remote control delivers a smarter, easier, and more cost-effective way to manage your devices

If you're managing a device fleet, efficient device management and remote control are absolute must-haves. MDM offers centralized management for peak performance, while remote control keeps downtime to a minimum. Esper's integrated MDM and remote control solution puts it all at your fingertips, providing unparalleled control, efficiency, and convenience, regardless of fleet size. With endless possibilities for enhancing efficiency, productivity, and customization, you can confidently manage your devices with ease.

Benefits of MDM

▶ Simplified device management: Streamline tasks and reduce manual effort by managing devices remotely from a single location.

▶ Remote configuration: Save time, resources, and money by reducing the need for on-site visits and enabling technicians to set and update configuration policies on the fly.

▶ Reduced OpEx: Optimize device usage and reduce downtime with real-time device performance, location tracking, and performance monitoring.

▶ Increased security: Protect mobile devices and the data they contain with things like policy enforcement, device encryption, and remote wipe capabilities.

Benefits of Remote Control

▶ Increased efficiency: Access devices as if they were in the same room as you from any location, whether it's across the world or just across town.

▶ Optimized tech support: Maximize time, resources, and money saved by minimizing the need for on-site visits and enabling technicians to identify and resolve issues remotely.

▶ Reduced device downtime: Ensure maximum uptime for critical systems by allowing IT to promptly address any issues or perform maintenance tasks.

▶ Enhanced productivity: Manage devices conveniently by connecting to them from a variety of devices and platforms, like PCs, laptops, and tablets.

Esper is an all-in-one solution for enhanced efficiency and cost savings

Many companies pair their MDM with a service like TeamViewer to deliver a full device management solution. Esper saves you the hassle — and the budget!

With remote control fully integrated into our device management console, you can save IT headaches and optimize processes for efficiency. Provision devices over the air in minutes, debug and troubleshoot from anywhere, modify compliance policies on the fly, and more, all from the same console. No more complexity, no more wasted budget.
